A major focus this year will be starting to use the Bridges Math curriculum. We'll also continue our work on developing the skills of change-agents and social innovators, focusing on the skills of critical thinking, clear communication, cultural competence and grounding persuasive advocacy in sound reasoning and facts. Exploring contrastive analysis is a key equity strategy for our African-American students, both as an instructional strategy and a way to honor identity.

School Principal: Brett Wilfrid

Equity Vision

We commit to ensure that all youth, especially the underserved, cultivate the critical skills, literacies and agency necessary to have the opportunity to create lives that are engaged, empowered and successful.

Strengths

Strong relationships, innovation, shared responsibility, teacher teaming, distributed leadership, and a familial culture are some of our greatest strengths.

Progress

Focusing on developing the skills of agents of change, we saw high rates of student engagement (reflected in strong Climate Survey data), key connections with community leaders (including UW professors and Pastor Alex Gee), intentionally anti-racist instruction, and student-led protests against racism and gun violence.

Area for Growth

Home-school communication, behavior management (in hallways, in particular), attention to advanced learners, traffic safety.

Vision Connection

Our school supports MMSD's vision that all students acquire the skills and abilities needed to be successful, including a mastery of content areas, growth mindset, self-knowledge, creativity, wellness, interpersonal skills, confidence, cultural competence, and community connection. Through these skills and abilities, our students will graduate college, career, and community ready.
